- Ensuring the proper use of citizens' tax money through checks and balances

An Open Council Engaging with Citizens

- Live online broadcasting of plenary sessions
- Accepting citizen petitions and gathering feedback
- Publishing council news and managing social media channels

Dear Three Million Citizens of Incheon,

The 10th Incheon Metropolitan Council has begun a new chapter with 45 members chosen to represent our city - 39 constituency members and 6 proportional representatives. Bringing together a wide range of perspectives and experience, we will ensure that the many voices of Incheon are heard in the Council and reflected in the decisions that shape our city's future.

This 10th Council has expanded from 40 to 45 members to reflect Incheon's administrative reorganization and changing population. The establishment of new administrative districts and shifts in population distribution have strengthened local representation, providing a solid foundation for us to better understand the lives and concerns of citizens in each area and reflect their diverse needs in a balanced way in the Council's work.

A new Council also brings new responsibilities. The 10th Council combines the insight of experienced members with the fresh ideas and determination of those serving their first term. Together, this diversity will help us better understand citizens' needs from a broader perspective and respond actively to a rapidly changing environment.

We will continue to build the expertise and policy capacity needed to serve Incheon well. Through regular professional development and practical training, our members will strengthen their policy expertise, identify problems on the ground, and propose practical solutions. Our goal is a Council that listens, works, and delivers. Above all, the 10th Incheon Metropolitan Council will remain a trusted Council standing with citizens. We will listen closely to every voice, seek answers in our communities, and carefully address everyday concerns, including balanced regional development, livelihoods, the local economy, transportation, housing, education, and welfare. We will fulfill our responsibility to provide effective oversight of the executive branch while working constructively wherever cooperation can improve citizens' lives and prepare Incheon for the future. In this way, we will turn policy into visible change and help build a better tomorrow.

Until the aspirations of Incheon's three million citizens are fully realized, all 45 members of the 10th Incheon Metropolitan Council will remain true to our original commitment and work tirelessly by your side. We ask for your continued interest and wholehearted support as we work to turn Incheon's boundless potential into reality. Thank you.

Chairperson Park Jong-hyeok

A Trusted Council,

How the Council Operates

To ensure that citizens' voices are reflected in municipal affairs, the Incheon Metropolitan Council meets in regular and extraordinary sessions.
During each session, members deliberate and vote on draft ordinances and budget proposals, review city administration, and discuss policies to improve citizens' lives and promote local development.

01 Convening Regular and Extraordinary Sessions

02 Review by Standing Committees

03 Plenary Vote

04 Implementation of Policies for Citizens

Regular Sessions

Held twice a year; total duration not to exceed 70 days

First Regular Session June 1 each year + Second Regular Session November 5 each year

Extraordinary Sessions

Up to 20 days per session
Convened by the Chairperson upon the request of the Mayor, the Superintendent of Education, or at least one-third of the incumbent council members

Plenary Session

The plenary session brings together all council members and serves as the Council's highest decision-making body, deliberating and taking final votes on major matters such as draft ordinances and budget proposals. A plenary session may begin only when at least one-third of all council members are present.

Committees

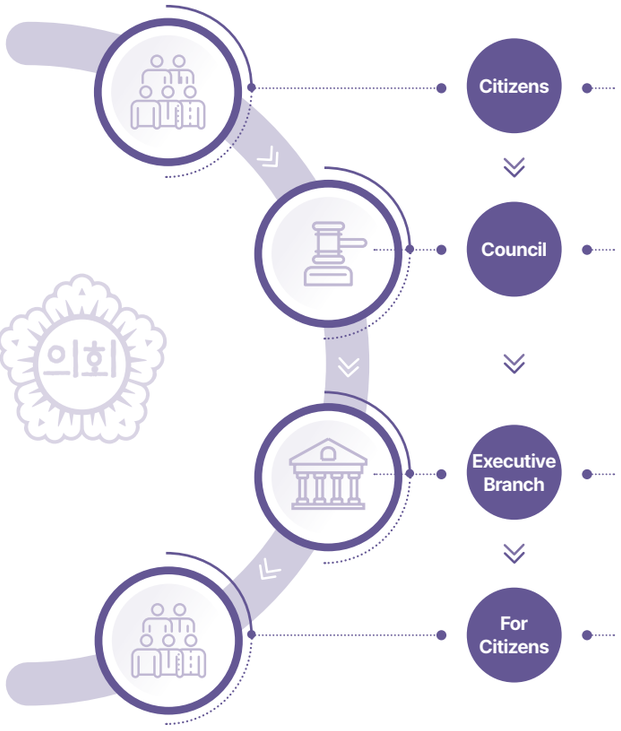

Standing and special committees conduct detailed reviews of agenda items before they are submitted to the plenary session. They examine matters within their areas of responsibility, review major policies and current issues, and support efficient deliberation by the full Council.

Standing with Citizens, Building a Stronger Tomorrow

We will represent the will of our citizens, listen closely to voices from across our communities, and work together to make Incheon
a better place to live and build a stronger future.
